

Preliminary Detalied Syllabus for Macro II Part II, Spring 2025

Erik Öberg

Overview

- The course introduces workhorse models used in the i) business cycle, ii) frictional labor market and iii) incomplete markets literatures. Emphasis will be put on developing analytical techniques for actively working with these models as well as understanding their core implications. We will also repeatedly explore the usage of micro data to inform macroeconomic models.
- 14 lectures:
 - 6 lectures (20 hours) on business cycle models
 - 4 lectures (13 hours) on frictional labor markets
 - 3 lectures (7 hours) on incomplete asset markets
 - 1 summing-up/Q&A session
- 7 TA sessions: 1 tutorial session on using Dynare / 6 sessions on graded problem sets
- Basic proficiency with Matlab is assumed; there are a lot of tutorials you can check online.
- The Ph.D. Macro Book is our main textbook. Core readings are marked with a *. The other listed readings are highly recommended. In addition to this material, we will discuss some additional papers in class. These readings are for the interested.
